

USA WEEKEND

DECEMBER 10-12, 2010

Who's News

Q We miss John O'Hurley on Family Feud. What's he been up to since leaving the show?

Marilyn McQueen, North Fort Myers, Fla.

When O'Hurley left the syndicated show in January after four seasons as host, he said he was going to pursue "new adventures." This year, the 56-year-old, who also is known for his role as J. Peterman in Seinfeld, has been a part of the touring cast of Chicago: The Musical, in which he portrays flamboyant attorney Billy Flynn. An avid golfer, O'Hurley also has participated in several tournaments, and he's part owner of J. Peterman Co., which introduced the O'Hurley golf shirt this year. Comic Steve Harvey replaced O'Hurley as host of Feud.

Q Are either Mike Wolfe or Frank Fritz of American Pickers married or have children?

Debbie Walker, Cookeville, Tenn.

Neither of the History Channel American Pickers hosts is married, and neither has children. However, Wolfe, 46, and Fritz, 47, each has a girlfriend, says the rep for the show, which is based out of the Antique Archaeology shop in LeClaire, Iowa. Visitors are always welcome.

Q What's happened to Rachel Zoe? Seems like her show ended early.

Cara Brown, Lubbock, Texas

Celebrity stylist Rachel Zoe is as busy as ever:

She recently announced she is pregnant with her first child! "I feel great." She and husband Rodger Berman "are beyond excited and so thankful for all of your love and support,"

Zoe, 39, tweeted. Professionally, she tells us, "In addition to my collection for QVC, which is constantly evolving and expanding, I am now also obsessively working on my new contemporary collection. It is my most exciting endeavor yet." Zoe's line will launch in fall 2011. She also produces a daily fashion and beauty newsletter that you can sign up for at RachelZoe.com. As for her reality show, a rep for the Bravo channel tells us that the third and most recent season of The Rachel Zoe Project ended on Sept. 21 as planned.

Lucy Liu doesn't have a timetable for marriage and motherhood.

Who's hot in Hollywood

Lucy Liu, 42, plays a woman looking for Prince Charming in Lifetime's four-hour miniseries, Marry Me (Sunday at 9 p.m. ET), but in real life, she's not feeling the pressure. "I don't have a settling-down time," she says. Biological clock? "Someone threw out the battery. I never feel like it's too early or too late for anything. I don't ever think that this traditional way is the way to go for me because I haven't had a traditional life." . . . Jacqueline Bisset says diverse roles have been tough to find.

Bisset

"I'd often say to my agents, 'I could play this, that or the other,' and they'd tell me, 'No, you're too glamorous,' Bisset, 66, says. "I'd say, 'No I'm not.' I felt I could play a wide variety of roles, and I had to try and find them. I was not really interested in being a glamour girl." Catch her in the Hallmark Channel's An Old-Fashioned Christmas Saturday at 8 p.m. ET.